

Miniprofile

Senior Scout Reconnaissance Specialist 4th Class, John M. Mauerman, United States Army. His service was from 1968 through 1970. John is one of our many Vietnam veterans you were not allowed to talk about that war with. John was wounded three separate times, patched up and sent back out to fight. It wasn't until he was exposed to Agent Orange that he was allowed to go home. He now lives in Oregon and his body is forbidden to receive sunlight. He endures chemo therapy every six months. It is just in recent years he is able to say anything about the war in Vietnam.
